YOUR HVAC SPRING TO-AVOID LIST

What's better than a do-to list?

A to-don't list! When it comes to your HVAC system, avoiding certain behaviors and ensuring you don't neglect proper maintenance is critical to keeping your system functioning. Winter might be fading away but spring and summer have their own challenges. Not to mention indoor air quality is important year-round.

To protect your family's health and keep your HVAC system in top shape, here is your spring to-don't list.

Leave that dirty filter in your furnace

Okay, this is technically a to-do since it's telling you to replace your filter, but neglecting your filter leads to dust in your ductwork, increased allergen levels, and a struggling blower. Replace your filter this spring to avoid poor indoor air quality and the issues that come with it.

Did you know you can now purchase your filters for automatic delivery on our website?

Spring clean everything except your furnace room

If your furnace room also functions as storage space, this is a definite to-don't. This spring, add the furnace room to your spring clean up list so your equipment has the right amount of clearance for safe and efficient operation.

Neglect a tune up

Neglecting your HVAC equipment is another habit to change this spring. Add this to the top of your to-don't list for the season, and you'll reap the benefits for the years added to your equipment's lifespan. Tuning up your air conditioner during the Spring will prepare you for the sweltering heat before it becomes a problem.

Message to our valued customers

I am sure I don't need to tell any of you that it has been a challenging last couple of years.

As an "essential" service we have remained on the frontline to service our customers comfort needs and will remain there for the foreseeable future.

We have always prided ourselves in providing honest, reliable, HVAC services and installations at a great value to our customers.

In this effort we have tried to keep our prices at levels our customers have come to know and expect.

We have not had a price increase on our Cool Comfort Priority Maintenance Program In many years as a result of that effort.

Overhead cost increases have forced us to make a small change this year however.

As I am sure you have felt as well, prices at the pump and everywhere else are going up

We pledge to keep our price increases to the minimum as possible. In the case of large ticket items such as complete system replacements we will make long term financing options available to help offset the impact to our customers budgets.

Our Cool Comfort Priority Maintenance Program will be going up from a cost of $69 a pre-season tune up, to $89 for the first system and $79 for each additional system.

New system financing offers will be 12 to 72 months no interest or low interest for up to 180 months for low monthly payments or like always we will give a discount for payment by check/cash.

If you are in need of a new system our advice is not to wait. We had 4 price increases on equipment last year. And it looks like we will get more this year. We will hold the line as much as possible. Thank you for being our customer!

Wait for a failing system to fail

I don't know how many times I have heard one of my customers say, "I know I need a new system, I am just going to wait until this one fails and then replace it"

That is not normally a good idea. Systems fail when they are under the most stress. And that is in the heat of to hottest summer day in most cases.

If you wait until then prices are normally higher and wait times longer Spring is the best time to replace an old system

Leaving your old thermostat

Invest in a programmable thermostat. Wi-Fi thermostats can be programmed from your computer or mobile device giving you the ability to control the temperature in your home while you're away, helping you keep more money in your pocket.

WHY OWNING A PET IS AWESOME

Dogs are known as man's best friend. Cats... still planning to rule the world. Regardless of the animal that's invited into your home to join the family, there's no debate that having a pet can bring joy and laughter into your life (not to mention tons of opportunities to make funny animal videos).

If you're on the fence about getting a pet, here are five reasons to go for it!

Pets lower stress levels

There's a reason people turn to cat videos for stress relief. Animals are funny, loving, and innocent. Being in their presence has a tendency to put things into perspective. That deadline? Not important while the puppy chases his tail then wags it at you. Your awful day at work melts away when your cat greets you with arrogant purrs to let you know that you missed him (and not the other way around).

They lower blood pressure and reduce risk of heart disease

Less stress means lower risk of heart disease. Laughter and cuddles with furry friends bring down blood pressure as they lower overall stress levels. Even watching fish swim around in their bowl or tank can bring you peace as the world's chaos fades away.

You'll have increased fitness

Dogs in particular need daily exercise just like humans, but we're more prone to drop the ball and binge watch our favorite TV show. When your pet needs a walk on the other hand, there's no ignoring it. You're forced to stick to an exercise routine, reaping the benefits of increased fitness.

Less depression

Again, funny cat videos. Pets bring joy and comic relief that not even the best animal videos can capture. They also comfort you when things just aren't working out and you're feeling low. There's no resisting a loving look from puppy eyes. Combine this with regular exercise and your risk of depression drops.

Pets teach children how to care for others

Children in particular can benefit from taking care of a pet, and they learn lessons that stay with them throughout their lives. Compassion for those in their care, responsibility, and the ever challenging "doing things I don't feel like doing" are skills that will help them to achieve balance and success as they grow. Ultimately, having a pet is about expanding the love in your family to include a special animal and can be beneficial to humans and animals alike.
